Our story

Everything started with Leticia´s concern about eating healthy food at home and teaching her children about the benefits of having an urban garden. She fell in love with organic production methods, and she discovered that eating healthy could be also delicious. So, she decided to create Ceimaya, a brand engaged to offer healthy and delicious organic products. She picked honey products because Mexico is a high-quality producer of varietal honey. The adventure started there, and now Ceimayá is certified under several organic certifications and Kosher too. Ceimayá is well represented in supermarkets across Mexico and now it is time to cross borders with its products satisfying healthy environmental commitment foodies.
